Have you taken a look recently at the beautiful scenery in Oak Grove? If not, you have missed something. Fountain Bros.

At one time Oak Grove was the aristocratic part of Bryan. It will be so again, because the oak trees, park, lake, fireproof schoolhouse, cement walks and nearness to town make it the most desirable residence district. Fountain Bros.

ALLEN ACADEMY SUMMER SCHOOL

A Seven Weeks' Term To Be Conducted by Faculty Made Up from Academy and A. and M. College.

For some time a report has been current that a summer school would be conducted at Allen Academy during the coming vacation. The Eagle learned today that the matter had been fully consummated, and that a seven weeks' term would be taught, opening on June 16 and closing August 1.

The inauguration of this summer school is the result of a number of conferences between the principals of the academy and President Milner and members of the faculty of the A. and M. College. The matter was thoroughly discussed in every particular and detail, all of which were worked out and settled to the perfect satisfaction of all concerned. The summer school will start out with the full endorsement and co-operation of the faculty and officials of the A. and M. College. The school is established especially for two classes of students:

First—Boys in all parts of Texas who desire to attend the A. and M. College next session, and who have entrance deficiencies to be made up.

Second—Students of the A. and M. College who have deficiencies to be made up in order to enter the next higher class with a clear record.

As a guaranty of the efficiency and thoroughness of the work to be done by the Academy Summer School, it is but necessary to say that the teaching force will be composed of the academy faculty and a number of strong teachers from the faculty of the A. and M. College. Not only that, but the college has tendered the full use of all its laboratories and other equipment that may be needed in the work.

Mr. Gammill of the interurban has made liberal concessions in rates, and assures the directors of the school that he will run cars whenever needed in conveying students and teachers to and from the college in their work.

The Allen Academy is ideally located for a school of this kind. With its new brick dormitory with large, cool rooms and every modern convenience, with a commodious dining hall, and with an up-to-date equipment, climaxed with a superb teaching force, more fortunate conditions for thorough work could not possibly be found in all Texas.

The school will bring into our midst the flower of the boys and young manhood of Texas, and we feel assured the people of Bryan will be glad to have them, and bespeak for the young men a most cordial and hospitable reception.

A full detailed statement of the school will be published in these columns some time during the coming week.

CARD OF THANKS.

The ladies of Villa Maria desire to thank all those who endeavored to make their benefit a success, and wish to especially extend to Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Fairman their appreciation for their kindness.

"Als Ik Kan"

Several centuries ago, there lived a Flemish painter whose masterpieces of art are now worth thousands, and hundreds of thousands, of dollars.

This man—the great Van Eyk—was a genius of thoroughness and careful workmanship. He personally "ground" his own colors and selected his own canvas; he studied his subjects for weeks and months, and considered no time too long, or effort too great, to give the work which bore his name.

Each of these rare treasures also carries the legend, "Als ik kan," which means in plain English

"The Best That I Know How"

In this present age of commercialism it is difficult to find an article of which its maker can truly say, "This is the best that I know how to make."

But there are such things.

Even in so everyday a matter as clothes, you can find a signature which means just that— which means that experts of forty years' have made it the very best that they know how.

With nothing skimped, nothing cheapened, nothing inferior—this is the meaning of the Society Brand label you see here. And this is the reason we buy these clothes—because they are the very best that this store knows how to buy—and sell to you.

Come and see.
